HCPC Welcomes Two New Pharmaceutical Packaging Member Companies

Richmond, VA -- The Healthcare Compliance Packaging Council is pleased to announce Aptar CSP Technologies and Platinum Press recently joined the trade organization's efforts to advance improved patient outcomes through packaging. "We are pleased to welcome these new member firms as we continue to educate healthcare stakeholders and regulators that proper pharmaceutical packaging, like unit dose blisters, can have an impact on patient adherence and patient safety, as well as aiding in the prevention of drug misuse and addiction," stated Walt Berghahn, HCPC executive director. "We look forward to formally welcoming these new members at our March 2019 conference when we host the IoPP's Drug and Pharmaceutical Packaging Committee in Charleston, SC. Their varied expertise, along with our additional HCPC member sponsors, will enhance discussions with FDA's Dr. Irene Chan, as well as the CDC's Dr. Dan Budnitz."

"Aptar CSP Technologies is honored to join the HCPC and use our voice to help promote the importance of unit dose packaging," said Craig Voellmicke, Vice President, Business Development for Aptar CSP Technologies. "This is a great opportunity to work in tandem with industry counterparts to influence and educate others about the role unit-dose packaging can play in lowering healthcare costs, tightening the pharmaceutical distribution chain, ensuring drug efficacy, and discouraging counterfeits, tampering and diversion." Aptar CSP Technologies is a global material science company providing innovative, highly engineered advanced packing solutions to protect sensitive products.
